

Quiz 4 - Regrade Submission 1

Emorie Beck

October 10, 2018

4. Specific factors in factor analysis are assumed to be uncorrelated with common factors.

Original answer: False

Explanation: This is true because the specific factors are by definition correlated with the common factors as the specific factors are hierarchical components of the common factors.